

ELLE

Star Treatments

We all know that celebrities get inundated with freebies, from clothes to cars, and everything in between. Which is why, when they seek out and return to a product over and over again, the rest of us better take notice. Because, let's face it, the stars have indulged in the kind of comparison shopping that makes Consumer Reports look amateur. When it comes to beauty products, it's no wonder that in a town obsessed with close ups, the glitterati are obsessed with their skin. To hydrate, porcelain-skinned beauties like Nicole Kidman and Michelle Pfeiffer swear by Aesop's all-natural Fabulous Face Oil, an addictive blend of Juniper Berry, Ylang Ylang, and Jasmine Petal, while Hugh Jackman is man enough to admit adoring Astara's Golden Flame Hydration Mask, with its delicious cucumber scent. To camouflage, none other than the (seemingly) facially flawless Winona Ryder turns to Joey New York's Pure Pores Hide and Heal, a concealer that simultaneously helps clear the skin of blemishes. Finally, to perfect, a who's who of gorgeous ladies, from Tori Amos to Tina Turner, turn to the man that made them up, literally: the late, great Kevin Aucoin.